Looking in With Pride

Pride is a funny thing: it's not so much the way you talk or the way you walk — it's more a matter of will. Pride is a desire to insure your actions with permanence and worth. It's more than just being able to say, "I did this." It's being able to say, "This was well done."

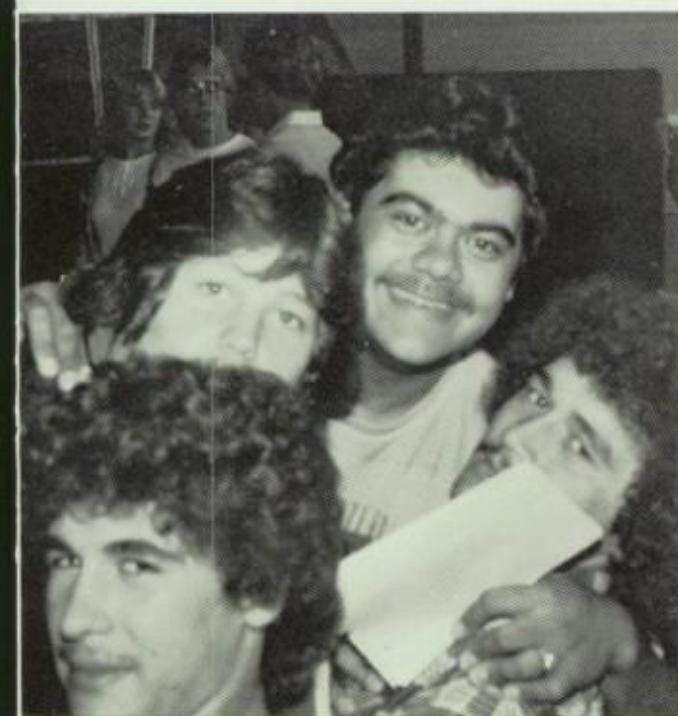

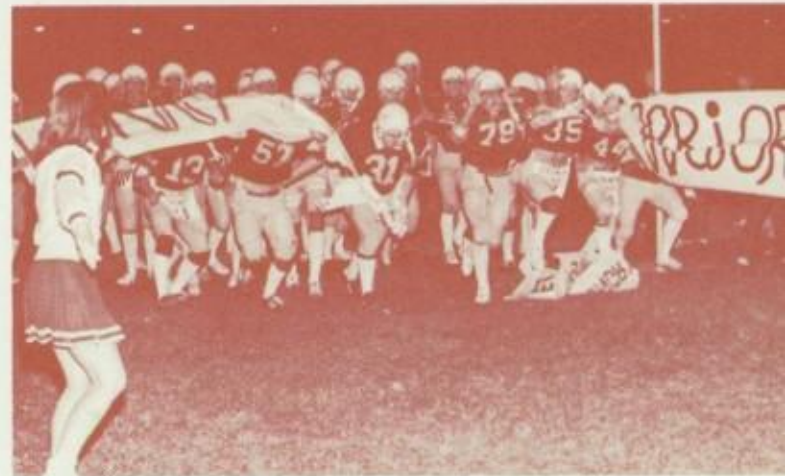

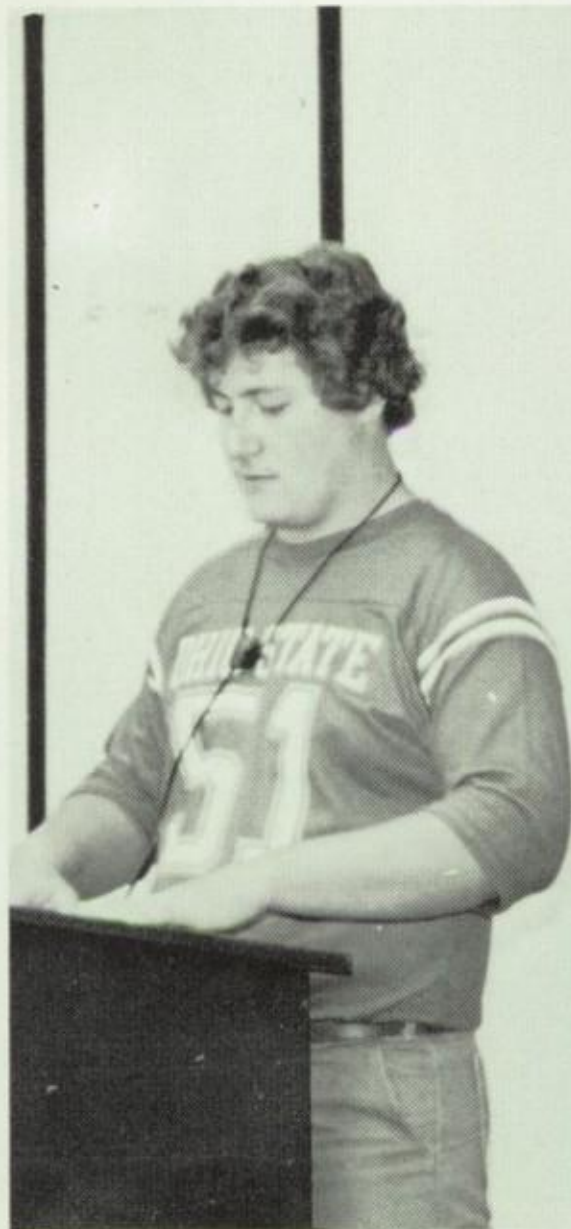

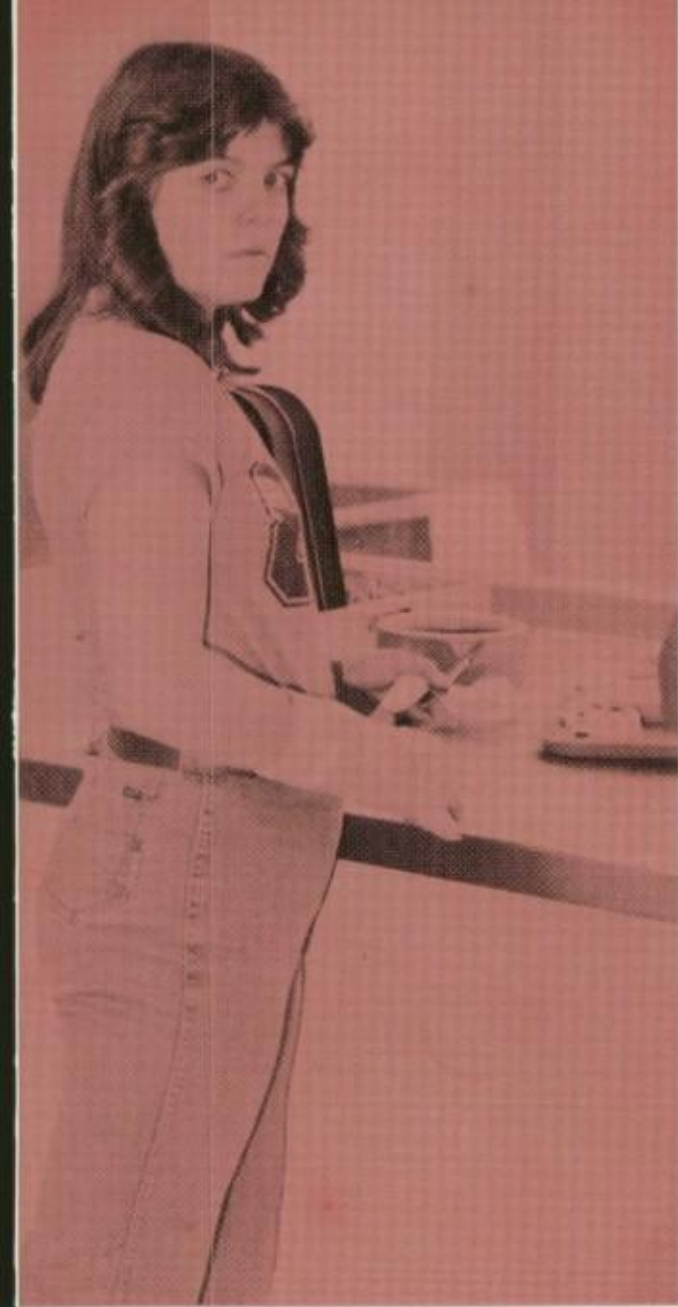

It was this kind of pride that made this year different from any other. Endeavor became more than just a vehicle for personal satisfaction. Every effort, every accomplishment was marked by the need of the individual to achieve an excellence of result. This need was motivated by the longing for a finished product or a goal of which could be said, not merely, "I did it," but "This was well done."

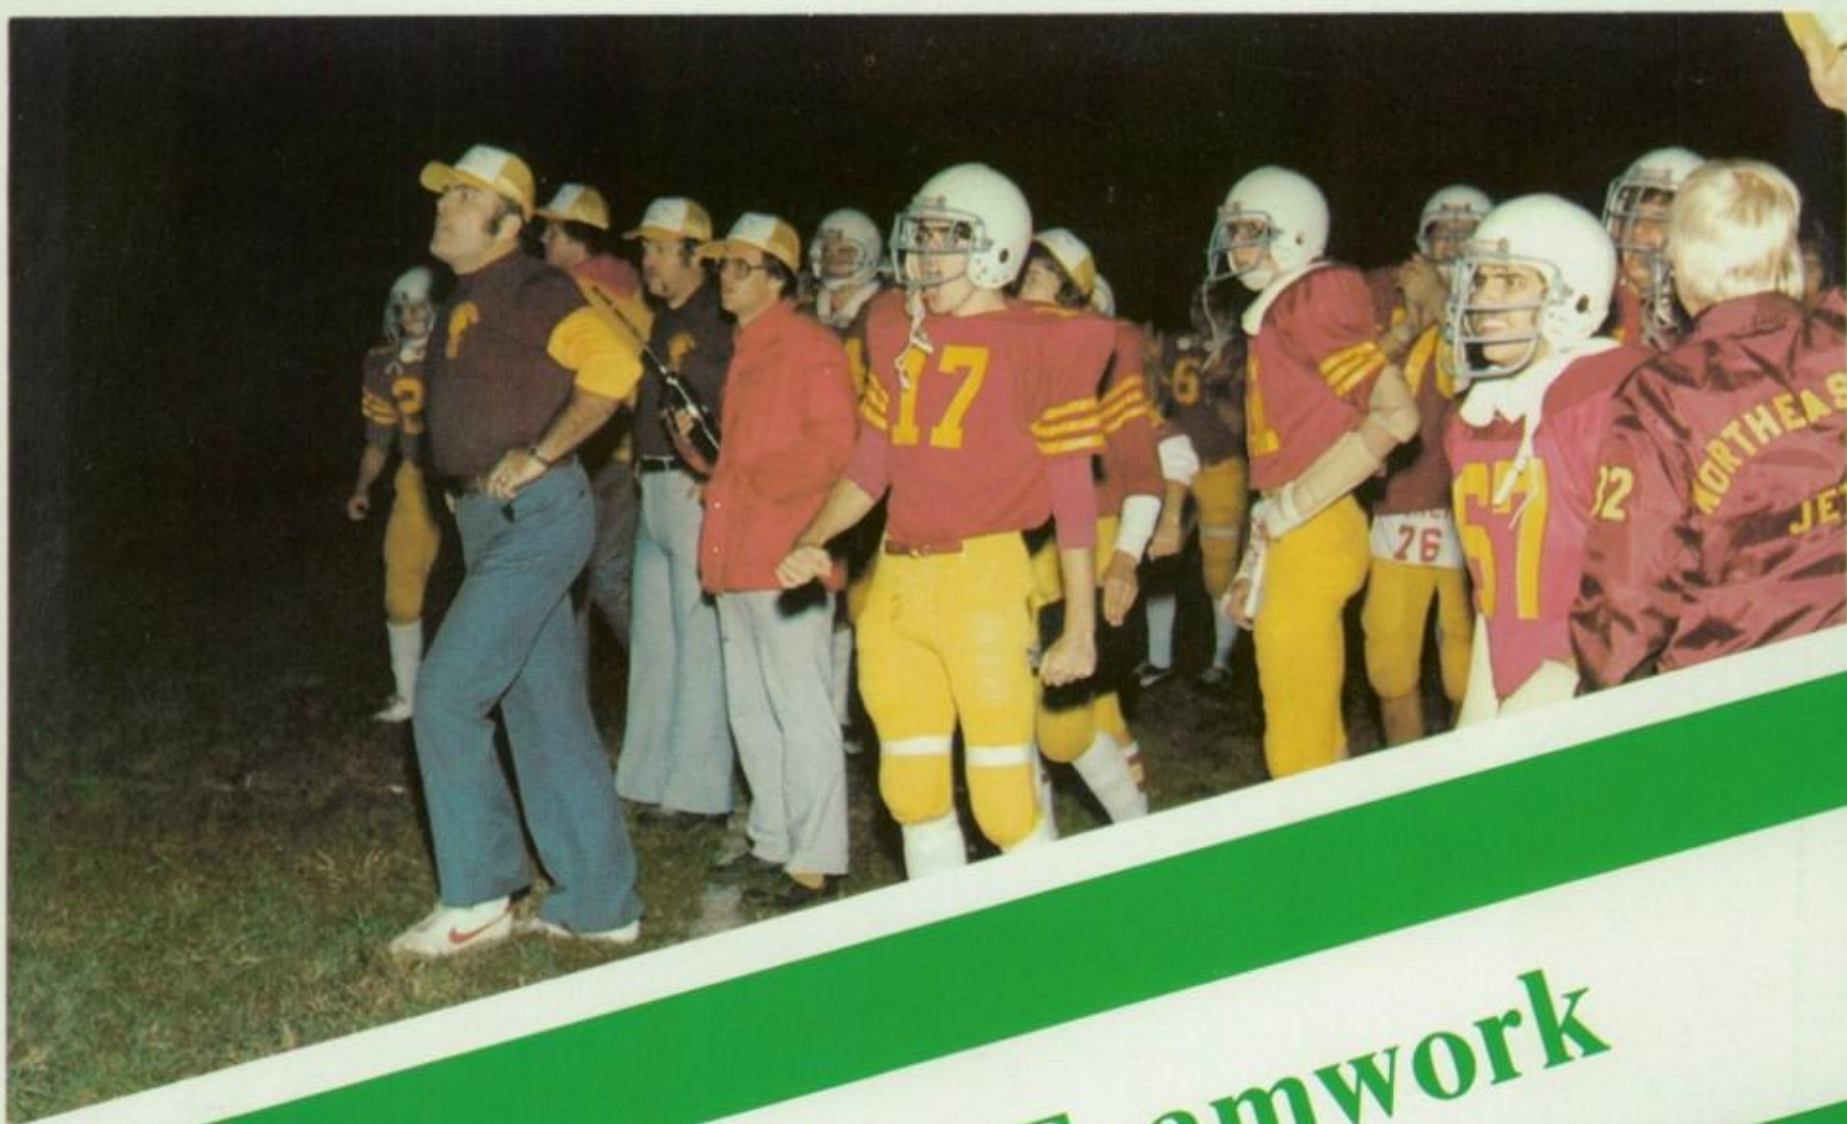

Accomplishment of a goal is perhaps the only thing a person leaves behind. But there is more to achievement than that which is visible to the onlooker. More than anything else, the spirit in which a thing is undertaken determines its worth. The temper which molded the actions taken this year was pride — persons were proud of where they were and what they were doing. It was this more than anything else that enabled them to do more than claim, "I did this." They were able to say, "This was well done."

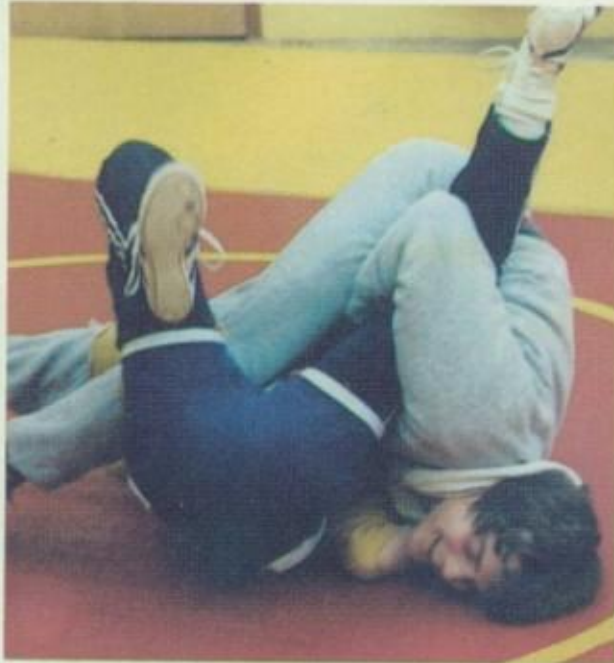

Watching the Teamwork

Sports at Northeastern took a decided turn for the better, as a new sense of pride became the keynote of the year. The student body became more enthusiastic, attendance at games increased and pep rallies became louder and rowdier. The athletes themselves seemed determined to go beyond themselves, to achieve something not just for themselves but for the school as well. Athletics at Northeastern were no longer restricted to cult status but became something for everyone.

A Day at the State

"Early in the morning we got on the bus; it was cold, and we wrapped ourselves in blankets and fell asleep. It was quiet — everyone stared out the windows, keeping their thoughts to themselves. We finally arrived, and got our entrance tickets and number. We walked over the course, trying to get the feel of what the run would be like. Afterwards, we all laid down on a hill, then we went together to buy souvenir T-shirts. Then everyone began talking about the season and about how hungry they were. Everyone was nervous, even Derrick Murray who had run in the State meet the past two years. After several races had been run, the guys were finally called to the starting line.

After the race was run, we went to the finish line to help the boys with their sweats, but the NE fans had already taken care of them. No one had realized until then that so many people had shown up to support us. We began our warm-ups while "Dad" gave us a pep talk. We asked the boys how the course was and then were called to the starting line. The course was harder than any we had run on before — it seemed longer because of the tension we all felt. The last half mile was the worst — running through a tunnel of people gave us all a feeling of claustrophobia. After the race, we all piled on the bus and went to McDonalds. We sat around for two hours talking about the great season we had and how much fun we shared. Everyone was sad about it being the seniors last year. It was very quiet on the way back home.

Coach + Team = Success

If the cross country team seems a little proud, they have good cause to be. Dedication and hard work paid off for them as team work and individual effort enabled them to win the CBC Championships for both the girl's and boy's categories, and for the first time in Northeastern history, the boys clinched both the Sectional and District Championships. The girls were District Runners-up, and both teams participated in the State meet. (Northeastern was the only school to send both boys and girls teams to the state) where the boys finished eleventh and the girls thirteenth. The boys finished first in all of the invitationals they participated in, with the exception of Troy, where they placed second. The boys placed the season with a record of 139-12, the girls final record was 153-26, an impressive accomplishment for both squads and for Coach "Dad" Klopfenstein.

Homecoming 81 was a break from the more formal traditions of past years. The theme was country-western, inspired in part by the local popularity of the film

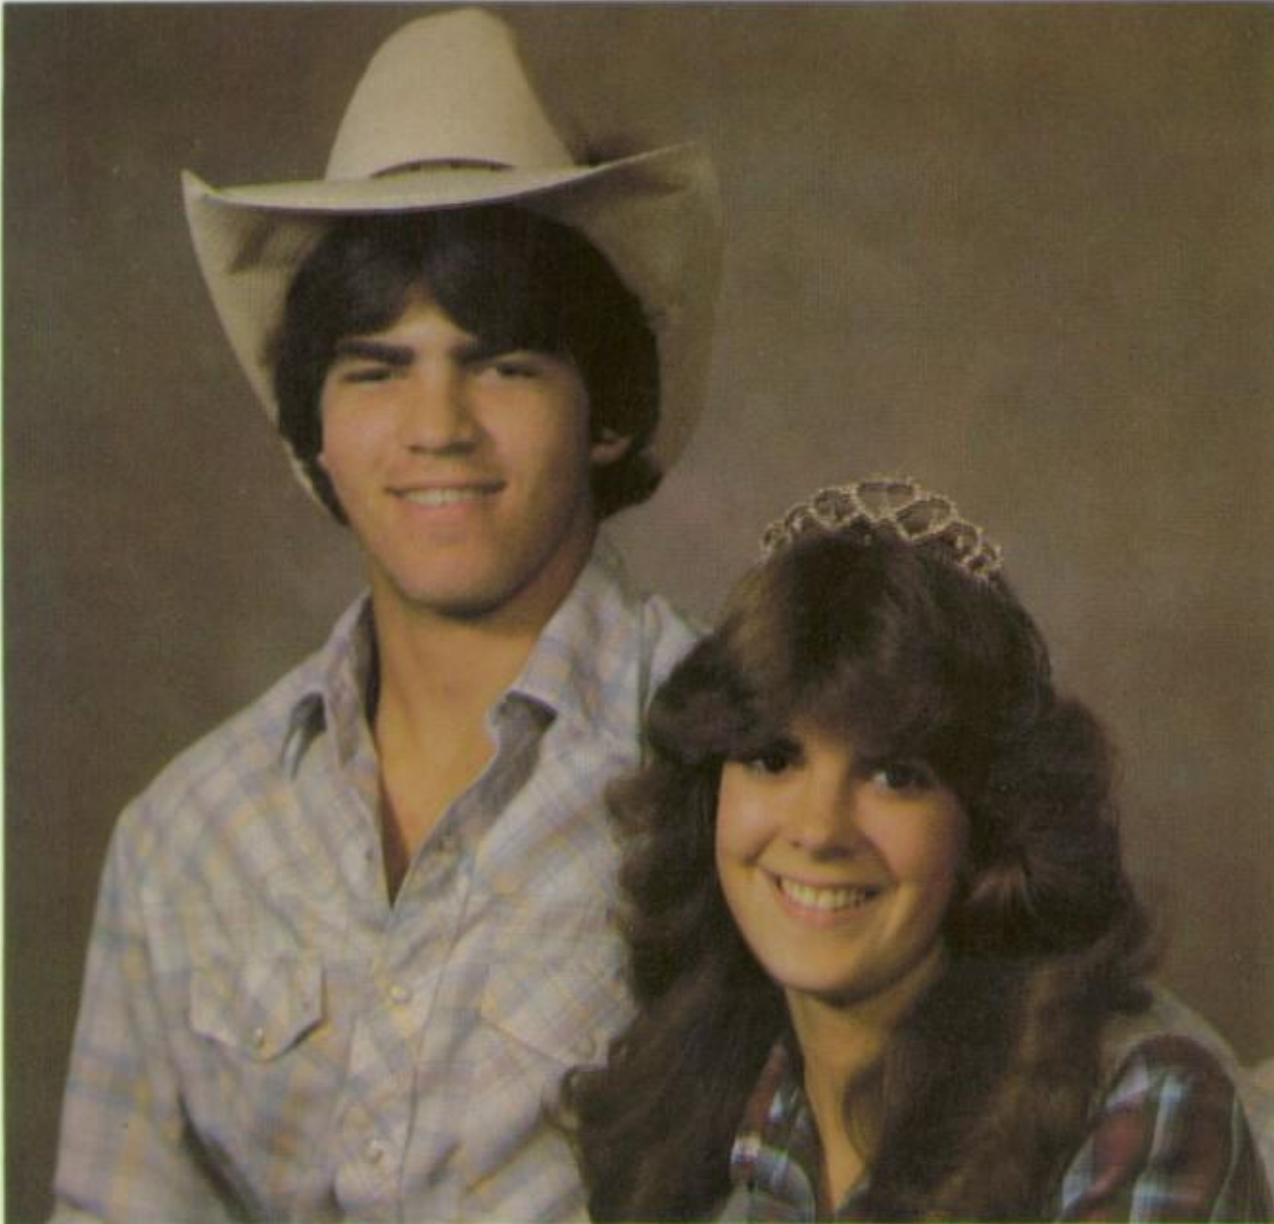

"Urban Cowboy." Homecoming week was marked by boot day, hat day, et. al., leading to the game Friday where senior Lisa Edwards was named Homecoming Queen

New Direction Results in Championship

When Coach Jerry Wasserman signed on as Northeastern's head football coach, he knew he had a job ahead of him. In the past three years the Jets had won a dismal total of five games. Coach Wasserman knew that to turn the Jets around he had to convince the players that they could win, and to make them realize what it would take to win. He went to work with the aid of his talented coaching staff to bring about this change of attitude among the players. Something clicked and the players responded by giving their coach his ninety ninth victory, in the season opener with a 33-0 romp over Southeastern. They proceeded to win their next four games, including a 15-0 shutout of Mechanicsburg.

Teamwork and Maturity Bring CBC Honors

The Jet's perfect season was spoiled in midseason by underdog London, in a disappointing 7-0 loss. But the Jets came back to win their next two games, including a 44-8 drubbing of arch-rival Kenton Ridge. Then in what was unquestionably the game of the year, the Jets shut down the high-scoring Urbana Hillclimbers in a 9-7 mud bath. This triumph gave the Jets a shot at CBC Co-Championship, which they clinched by beating Bellefontaine in the final game of the season. The question of whether Jerry Wasserman could turn around the Jet program was best answered in November, when he was named Coach of the Year by the Springfield News and Sun.

C.B.C. Co-Champs

Urbana: To the Wire

URBANA: Down to the Wire

On a Saturday night in October, the eyes of football fans in Clark County were riveted on Northeastern's Conover Field. It was there that the undefeated, state ranked, and highly favored Urbana Hillclimbers were to meet the Northeastern Jets, who had climbed out of the cellar to become contenders for the CBC Co-championship. The Jets, 7-1, had all their hopes riding on this contest. A 7-0 loss to London in midseason had eliminated them from a shot at the championship, but a win over Urbana would give them a piece of the CBC Title.

The night was bitter cold and the field was a 100-yard patch of mud. The Jets struck first, marching through the mire for a touchdown. Urbana struck back with a rally of their own, tying the game at 7-7. The remainder of the game was a bitter struggle for yardage, each team trying to gain scoring position. The stale-mate was finally broken when a Jet drive faltered near Urbana's goal-line. A fourth down conversion attempt failed and the Hillclimbers got the ball. Two plays later, Urbana Runningback, Rogan was cornered in the end-zone for a safety. 9-7 was the final score. Tired, bruised, and muddy, the Jets now were tied for the CBC Title.

Netters Show Improvement

If adversity builds character, then the girls tennis team could well be suffering from an overdose of personality. The tennis team was forced to struggle through a difficult season, posting not a completely satisfying record of 4-16. With no home courts, the team was forced to shuttle back and forth to Snyder Park for all their practices and home matches. One of the more pleasant events of the season was a tennis-thon held by both the boy's and girl's squads. This was held at Old Reid Park and lasted 24 hours. It raised over $500 dollars which was used to buy memberships at the Springfield Racquet Club for the use of both tennis teams during the winter months.

Golfers Place Well in CBC

Golf is a sport which calls for individual effort, self-discipline, and hours of practice. Those who play the game do not compete against others so much as they do against themselves. They drive themselves to do their very best, constantly pushing towards excellence. While this year's golf team did not set any records, they succeeded in satisfying their own goals which they had set. They placed 4th in the C.B.C. tournament this season which shows great ability from our players.

Volleyballers Work Hard

The volleyball team this year was forced to be content with a less satisfying season than they had anticipated. Although the team succeeded in maintaining a high level of competitiveness, they finished with a somewhat disappointing 4-12 record and they were defeated in tournament competition by Bellefontaine. The high point of the season was a four game winning streak early in the schedule, but this was followed by a four game losing streak. In the end, while the team did not accomplish all of their goals, they did maintain a high level of ambition and a never quitting attitude towards the game which is an important thing in any team endeavor.

Varsity Boost New Spirit

Cheerleading at Northeastern took a new twist this year in-somuch as all five squads learned to work together as a single unit. They attended cheerleading camp at Northeastern in late June, where they learned cheering skills and worked up new routines.

The championship football team was inspired by the enthusiasm and pride generated by the football cheerleaders. The pep rallies tied together through spirit and pride thus boosting the winning season.

The wrestling cheerleaders worked together to build up a strong support for the wrestling squad. They gave pins to the wrestlers who pinned their opponents and the girls continued the tradition of the "stumper": A word which they wear on their sleeves and at the end of the season, they explain the hidden meaning of the word.

RESERVES AND FRESHMEN LEND SUPPORT

There are three cheerleading squads for basketball. Varsity, Reserve and Freshman. The efforts of these girls to support their teams stood as a good example for the rest of the student body. Despite sicknesses and injuries which plagued the squads, they were always willing to put forth that little bit of extra effort required of a good cheerleader. At the end of the season, the girls presented the team with boutonnieres and the traditional scrapbooks containing newspaper clippings describing the season. This kind of loyal backing gave the team what they needed to get through the season.

REBUILDING WAS THE KEY

Rebuilding was the key to the '81 wrestling season. Faced with a dearth of experienced wrestlers, Coach Jerry Wasserman found himself in the position of teacher as well as coach. Of the students who went out for the squad, only were carryovers from last year, 5 of them seniors. It was around these, that Coach Wasserman had to build his squad. Many first year grapplers found themselves matched against more experienced opponents, yet they succeeded in giving a good account of themselves. The team, as a whole, finished out the year with a very decent 5-7 record and some very respectable placings in the several invitational in which they participated.

CHIEF AND JOE V. GO TO STATE

Five Jet wrestlers finished high in the CBC League Championship. They were: Troy Desentz — 3rd, Don Judy — 3rd, Joe Veneziano — 1st, Brian Smith — 2nd, and Dale McDonald — 2nd.

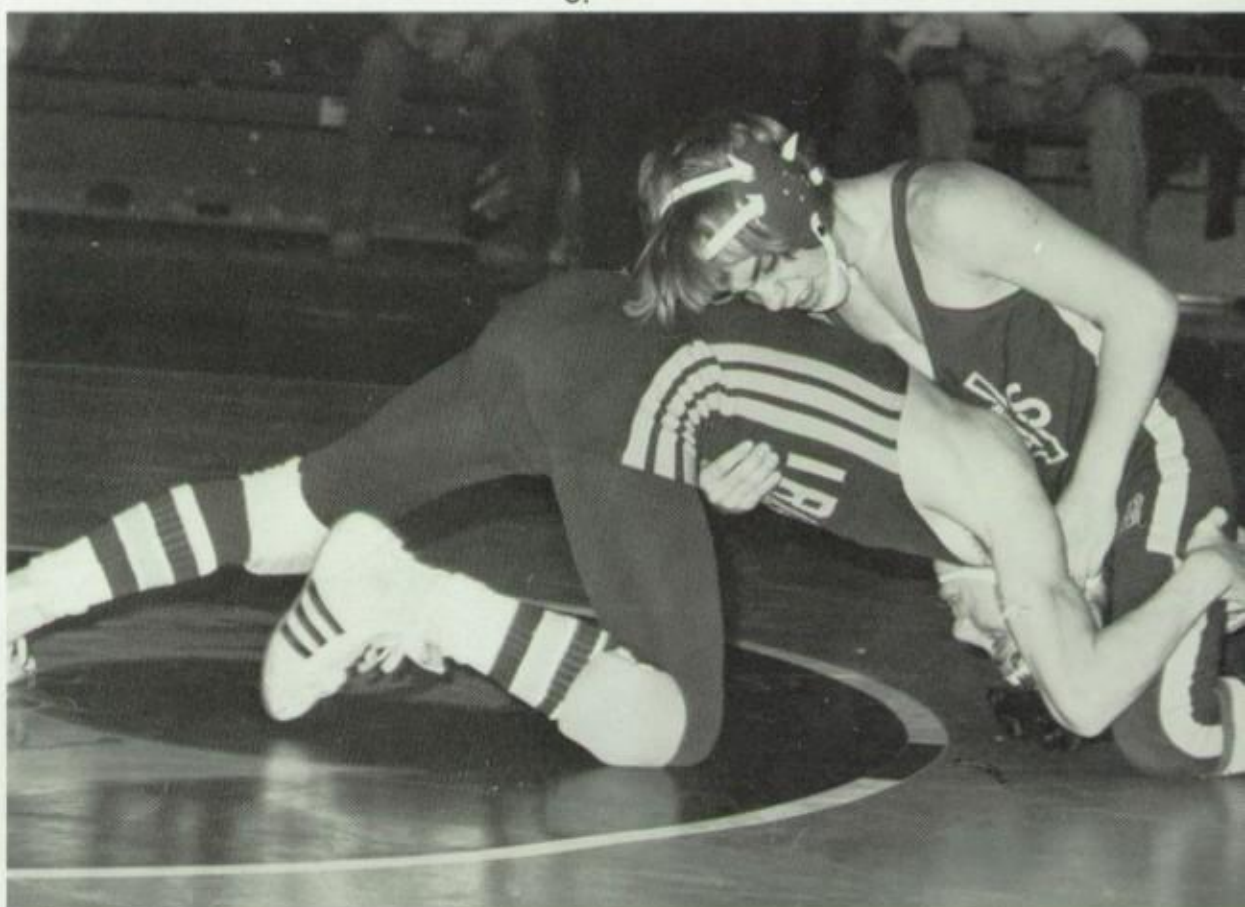

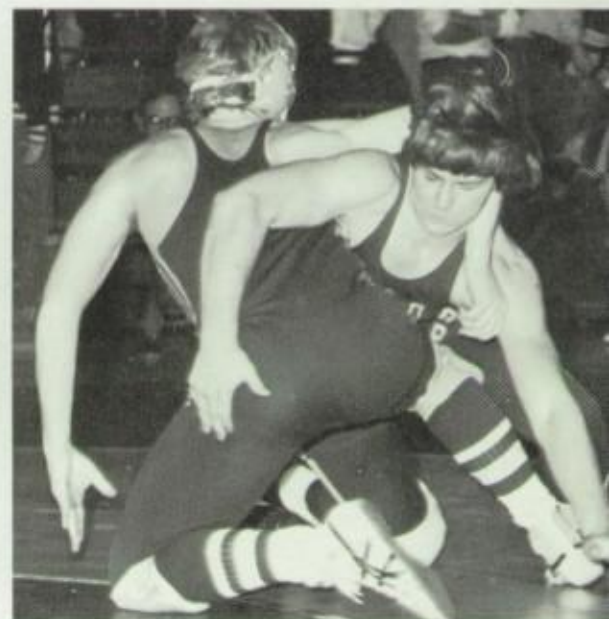

Joe's success in the post seasons match was a fitting finish to a year in which he was selected as most valuable on the grappler squad and scored the most takedowns. Joe owes a lot of his success to his father, Pete Veneziano who personally coached his son.

Dale scored the most pins and received the Coaches award. He has visited the state match the past two years and has made a respectable name for himself in the CBC League. Dale received a respectable fifth place in heavyweight division of the state this year.

NETTERS HAVE FINEST SEASON

Although not spectacular, the girls basketball season was successful in many ways. The lady Jets posted a highly respectable 13-9 record, a vast improvement over previous years. The girls displayed intense concentration and teamwork, enabling them to put forth a lot of winning efforts. Although they were eliminated from the tournament in the first round, the ladies were able to close the season justly proud of the fact that they had achieved their best season since girls basketball had been introduced at Northeastern.

TROUBLED SEASON PLAGUES JETS

The basketball team suffered more than their fair share of hardships as they struggled to a disappointing 2-19 finish in the CBC. A varsity squad riddled with injuries was only one aspect of the problems which plagued Doug Heskett's Jets.

The team seemed unable to pull themselves out of the hole, although the statistics do not tell the entire story — many defeats were only a matter of one or two points, as in the 64-62 loss to London. A high point of the season was the 57-45 win over arch-rival Kenton Ridge early in the season.

The team displayed both spirit and ability, but they were not able to get a hold on the season. But the team as a whole showed a lot of character and maturity throughout what must have been a very discouraging season and are to be commended for their willingness to make an effort in the face of overwhelming adversity.

Coach Mark Klopfenstein's Reserves posted a highly respectable 14-6 win loss record, and many of the players were given an opportunity to play on Varsity, gaining valuable experience.

The freshman team, under Coach Larry Reeb, finished the season with a 3-13 record.

Extracurricular activities are the extras, the fringe benefits, the things we do in our spare time. They are the sum of the people who participate in them, and differ from individual effort in that they offer the student the opportunity to join together with others who have similar interests and goals and common learning. These activities are a vital part of everyone's education and they are a part of that which makes school worthwhile. They are a definite part of that which makes us proud, not only by the worth of individual accomplishment but by the worth of the achievement of the group.

Despite technical difficulties, the 1980 Variety Show went off extremely well. The theme, "They're Playing Our Song" was very appropriate, as most of the acts were musical in nature, from dance ensembles to musical solos. Both students and teachers participated, in fact more students were involved in this year's show than in any previous production.

The display of talent was characterized by exuberance, especially acts like "Macho Man" and the traditional all male chorus line. To sum it up, the show, which played to a full and enthusiastic house, was a big success.

FUTURE FARMERS

The Northeastern Chapter of the FFA enjoyed a busy year under new advisor Ron Saylor. Members constructed a float for the Corn Festival and sold citrus fruit in December. Randy Powell was named Star Chapter Farmer, Larry Agle was named Star Greenhand and Teresa Goodfellow received the State Farmer degree. The

NE FFA also sponsored the District Nine General Livestock and Dairy Judging contest. Sam Roberts was top individual livestock judge. Northeastern's wool team, headed by Barry Woodworth, placed first in the district. In state competition, the milk team of Randy Powell, Kelly Manion and Leonard Blosser placed fifth. The wool team of Tim Reisinger, Susan Locke and April Augustus placed seventh, while the poultry team of Chris Shore, Ed Wiseman and Clinton Murray placed twelfth. Children's Farm Day was held at Tammie Toop's farm, with over 300 first graders enjoying a look at farm life. The parent appreciation banquet was

The National Honor Society sold candy in the fall to provide for the costs of inducting new members and the induction ceremony. Kris Routzahn and Rudy Smith represented Northeastern at the Presidential Classroom in Washington, D.C. after having scored high on a current events test, a government test and after having been interviewed. Members of the society offered their services to students who needed tutoring. The induction of new members took place on April 30, 1981. Seven seniors were inducted along with twelve juniors and one honorary faculty member, Mr. Donald Ward. Members also aided students with scheduling towards the end of the year.

SCHOLARSHIP TEAMS

Members of the Student Faculty Senate kept themselves occupied with the business of providing leadership and services for the school. Aside from planning and executing Homecoming, the senate provided student support for the Save Our Schools committee during the campaign to get the tax levy passed, presented a career day in which a wide assortment of professionals from every segment of the job spectrum provided information and advice to interested students. Perhaps the most ambitious undertaking was the Student Exchange program. Six students from Plainville Kansas visited Northeastern and its environs and seven students from Northeastern returned the favor by traveling to Kansas where they stayed for a week. Other senate projects included attendance at several leadership workshops, Christmas poinsettia sale, a chili supper held in October and the sponsoring of the Ohio Scholastic Tests of Achievement.

Far the second consecutive year, the Student Faculty Senate sponsored Career Day. The purpose of Career Day is to provide students with an opportunity to become familiar with a wide variety of career fields and to ask questions about professions in which they are interested.

Speakers were able to provide students with information concerning job descriptions, working conditions, educational preparation, salary range, and possible openings. Many students attended the sessions and the day was a valuable learning experience.

STUDENT EXCHANGE

The Student Faculty Senate's major project this year was their participation in the Domestic Student Exchange. Six students from Plainville, Kansas visited NE for a week and NE sent seven students to Plainville a week later. While in Kansas, the Northeastern students visited classes and were given tours of local industries. They also were shown local sites of interest such as the Cathedral of The Plains and the Dwight D. Eisenhower Museum.

The program was not merely an opportunity to see new places, it was an opportunity to make human contact and form new relationships. Participants learned much and gained valuable experience and valuable friends.

Despite problems which plagued the newspaper all year, including a brief suspension of printing following the defeat of the operating levy, the staff succeeded in turning out a consistently excellent tabloid. Experimentation with a new format proved to be successful, sales were high and student response to the publication was enthusiastic and positive. Money making projects included the rose sale and the annual slave auction, both activities bringing in enough money to enable the paper to overcome the obstacle of increased printing costs. The final product of the year's hard work has the senior issue, the largest paper ever printed at Northeastern, and according to proud staff members, the best.

The 1981 Annual Staff is both pleased and proud to present to their peers this edition of the Pilot. This yearbook is the product of much thought and many hours of labor. Everyone on the staff should be credited for the effort and time which they contributed towards the book.

Work on the yearbook began in the summer, when Managing Editor Charbe Duncan and Activities Editors Kris Routzahn and Cathy Raymond attended a week-long workshop at Eastern Kentucky University, where they placed 2nd in copywriting. A one day workshop was also held at Kenton Ridge.

Grub Day offers students a chance to exercise their imaginations and their creativity. This year's selection of costumes ranged from beer bottles to more traditional attire, such as babies and some rather hairy legged cheerleaders. The seniors met at Perkins for the traditional senior breakfast, and went on from there, calling a photographer from the News & Sun to catch them in all their glory, then proceeding to the school to display their garb. Inhibitions were relaxed as classrooms were invaded by masked men and drag queens,

Dinner Theater Big Success

History was made when the Drama Club and the French Club combined to present a dinner theatre. "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" was also the first musical ever done at Northeastern. Work on the production began in January, as students began building sets, memorizing lines and learning lyrics. Miss Bollinger worked with the cast on their singing, Mrs. Bean directed, and musical accompaniment was provided by Wittenberg student Tim Reynolds and members of NE's own band. The play sold out all three nights of its run and was a hit with the delighted audience. The play was a new and exciting experience for those who participated in it and its success was a credit for all involved.

The French Club was a very active organization, providing service, such as Christmas caroling at the Masonic Home, an annual activity. They also collaborated with the Drama Club in providing for the meal for three nights at the dinner theatre, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." Most members pitched in and helped cut meat, sauté onions, and chop carrots. On the nights of the show they served as waiters, bringing the food to the

Admiring the Talented

The creative arts provide the student with an opportunity to express thoughts and ideas through both the mediums of sight and sound. The expression of these thoughts and ideas take many forms, but they have in common one thing — they are the work of individuals. No matter how this is done — with musical instrument, voice, hand, or brush — the final product enables others to share that which otherwise might have been left unseen or unheard. There is a special kind of pride which a person feels when he sees his thoughts, his ideas, his dreams placed before others.

Even the proudest of persons must acknowledge the fact that at one time they did not know everything. Behind every intelligence there is a source of knowledge, usually a person, one who teaches, shows, offers examples and explains. At Northeastern we are particularly proud of our faculty, those who offer us the benefit of their experience so that we might gain the information that we need to accomplish our goals. We owe a great debt to these people, for they have provided us with many facts, some wisdom and plenty of advice.

Glimpsing at the Superior

The class of 81 is not just a group, it is a group of individuals, persons who value unity but have not allowed their distinctive personalities to be submerged under the label "Seniors". In all that they have done they have left the mark not of a mass but of individuals who are aware of the need to remain separate while maintaining a pride in the existence of the whole.

Commencement

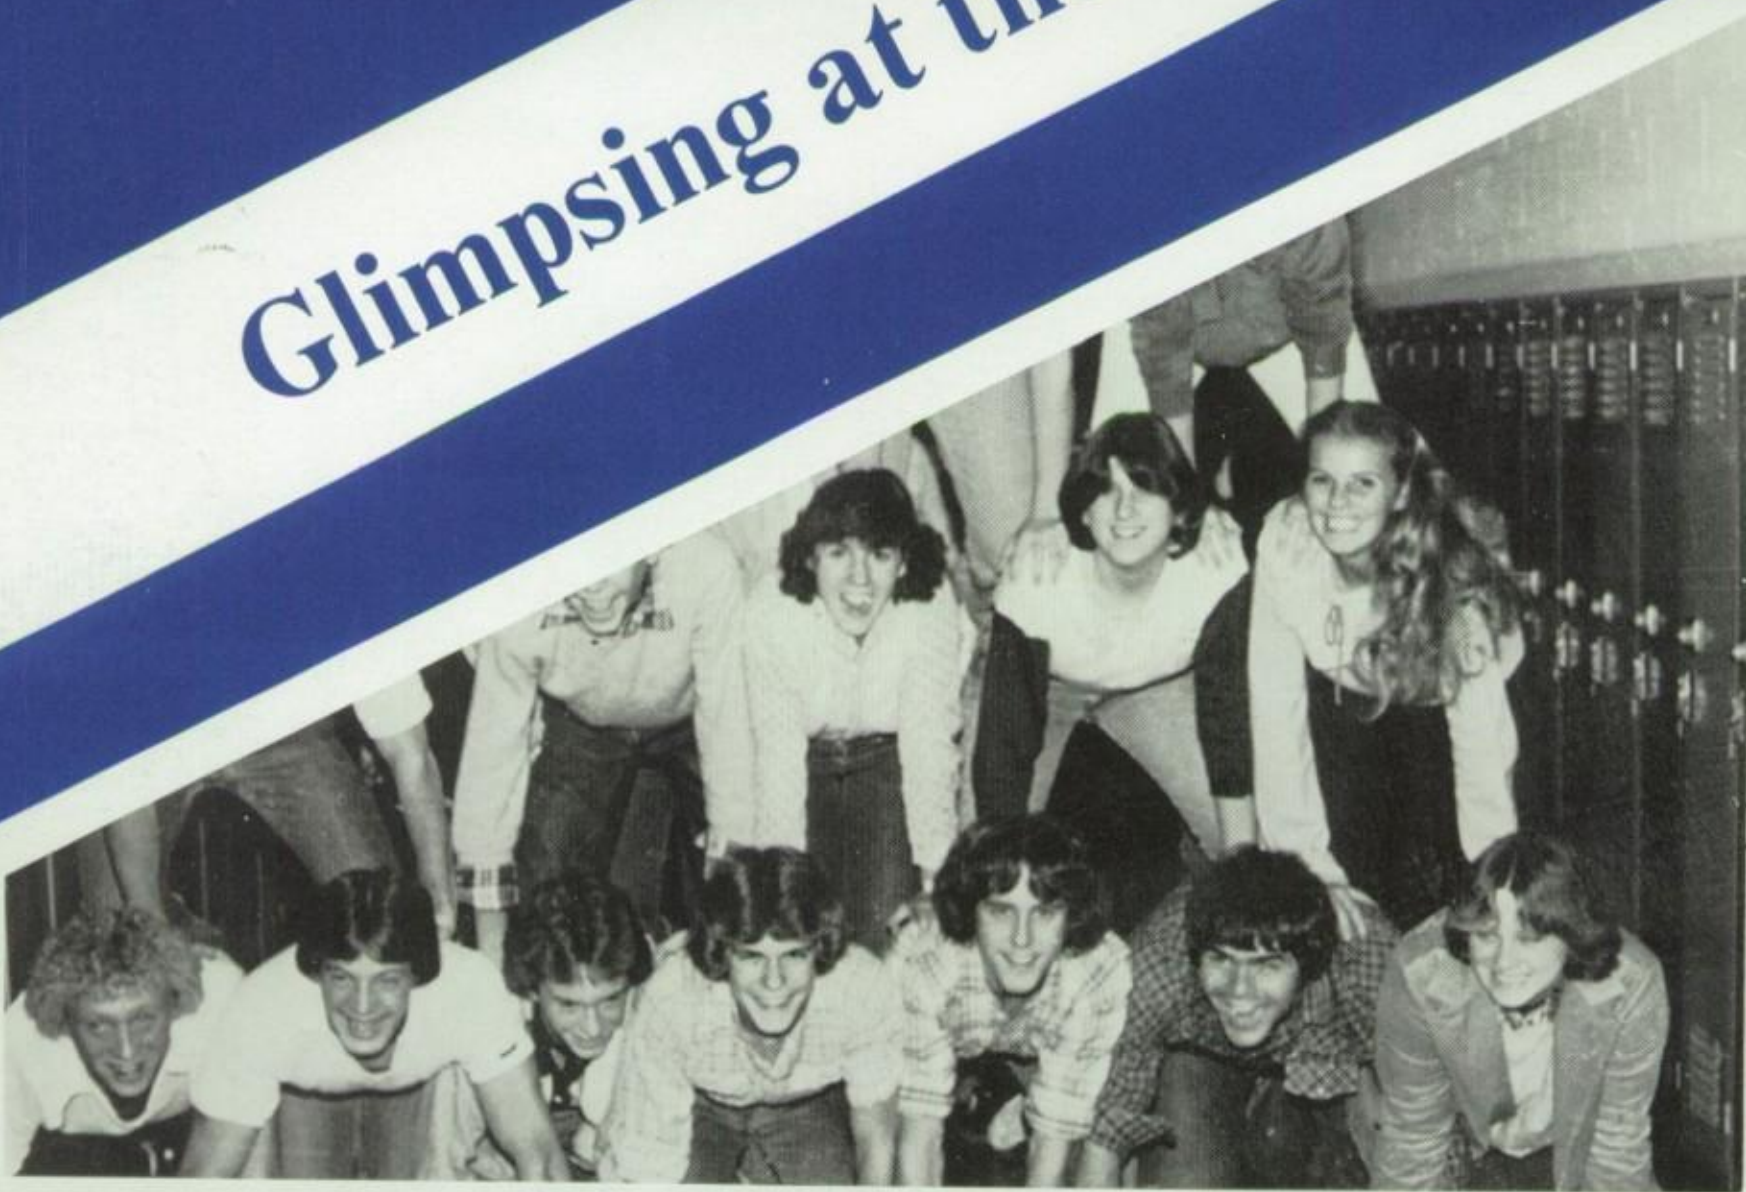

It is the classes, or rather the people who compose the classes who give Northeastern its character, its identity. Whether taken individually or as a whole, they are the reflection of the community and the school. They are the school and they represent the school both through endeavor and attitude, and they gain pride not only through association with their accomplishments but through the spirit which inspires these accomplishments.

A.I. Certificates Available.

We're involved in agriculture, breeding Polled Herefords, running commercial cows, feeding steers, feeding hogs and raising corn, soybeans and hay. We know what it's like to ride a tractor 16 hours a day. We clear land, pick up roots, string wire and drive staples to make productive pastures. We've hauled feed in snow and mud and sell livestock by the pound. That is why we strive to produce that something extra. It's too much work to be "just average." And it's not profitable.

So if you're looking for a few good females or that young herd bull and are not content to be "just average," come to Paul Deer Farm. You'll like what you see.

The year ended on a note of disappointment, with the failure of the operating levy and the news that spring sports and most other extracurricular activities were to be cut. But in spite of this, we managed to pull a few victories out of defeat.

The year had begun with a strike and ended in a downbeat manner, yet for all that, people were still willing to put forth a little effort, and make for themselves a memory of which they could be proud. Pride is perhaps the best part of memory, and that is what this yearbook was all about . . . Pride.

In Recognition . . .

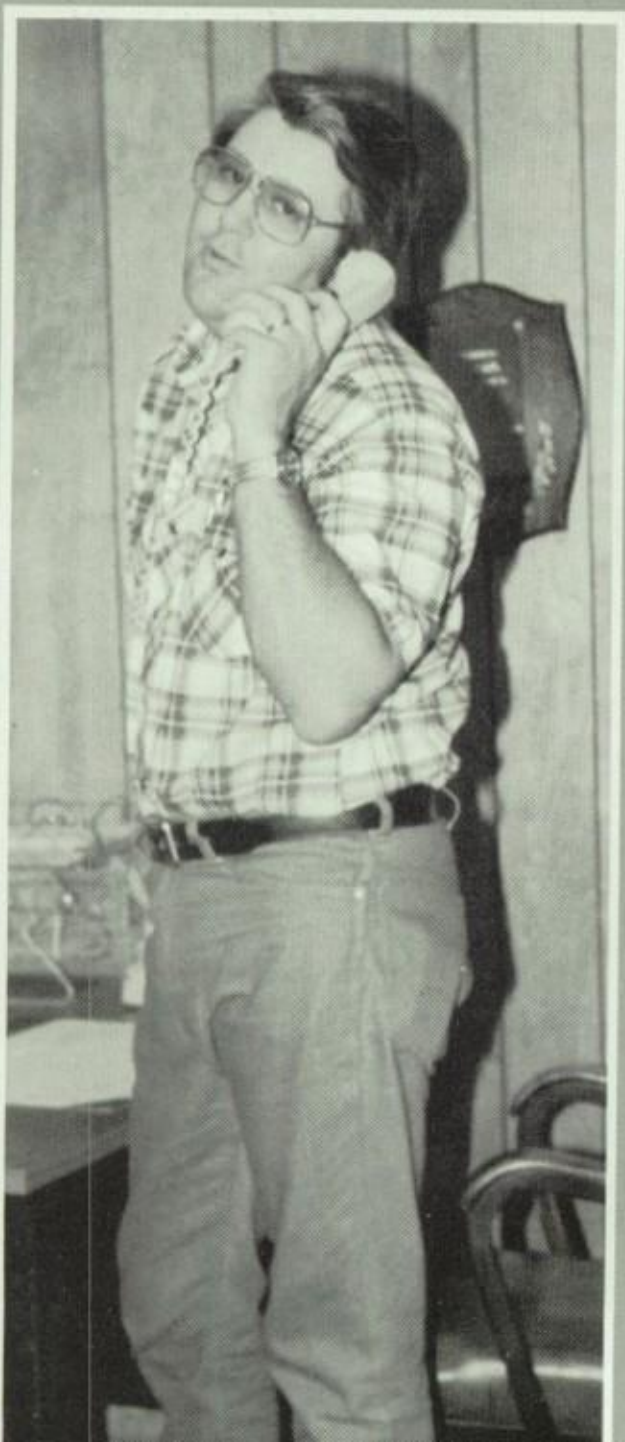

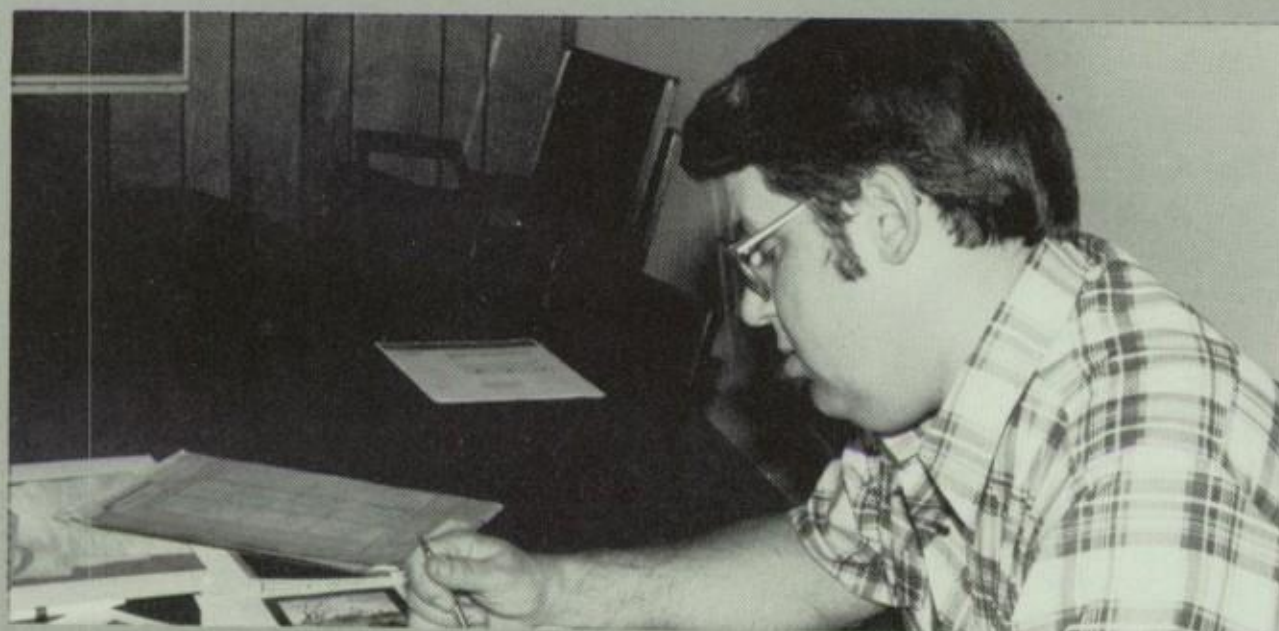

*Edwin Kranz
Yearbook Advisor*

. . . of Mr. Edwin Kranz, who has served as faculty advisor to the annual staff for the past ten years, has contributed his time, his talent and a lot of class to the efforts of students in producing the Pilot. The 1981 Annual Staff would especially like to express its gratitude for the support which Mr. Kranz gave us during the brief suspension of the yearbook. It was mostly due to Mr. Kranz's efforts that we are able to present you with this edition of the Pilot.

But aside from that, we would also like to thank Mr. Kranz for simply being there when we needed him. He was always around to offer us the benefit of his experience, to offer advice and to guide us in our work. His relationship with the staff was always based on respect and trust, and any success which we have managed to achieve is due, at least in part, to the fact that Mr. Kranz was willing to give us his confidence. It makes a difference, a difference which we came to appreciate as the year progressed. The fulfillment of responsibility is a lot easier when you know that you have someone behind you who believes in you.

1. Mr. Kranz discusses business over the phone.
2. Yearbook pages are checked by Mr. Kranz.
3. Mr. Kranz takes time out to answer the phone.
4. One of many students receives guidance from Mr. Kranz.

1981 Yearbook Staff

As managing editor of the 1981 PILOT, I would like to say a sincere thank you to all the editors and to the rest of the staff for their many hours in helping construct this edition of the PILOT.

I hope you find this issue a memorable one that you can look at with pride. Not only now, but in the years ahead.

I again want to thank you for what I feel was a job well done by the 1981 PILOT staff.
